

2021 NPB Season Cards

"Worst-to-First"

An unlikely season ended with an all-time classic Nippon Series as the Tokyo Yakult Swallows (last in the CL in 2020) defeated the ORIX Buffaloes (last in the PL in 2020) 4 games to 2 with a 12-inning 2-1 win. 5 of the 6 games were decided by 1 run, and the other game was 2-0. It would be an interesting season to replay.

Some notes and acknowledgements for the card set:

- Used Travis Jansen's HMB card-maker as the base, with some edits for fonts, team colors and I've added a lineup card for each team, as well as the team card available in Travis' creation.
- Most stats were taken from the official NPB website (npb.jp).
- Lineups and ballpark metrics taken from the RCAA & Pitching Run blog (<https://ranzankeikoku.blog.fc2.com/>)
- Fielding metrics used from 1.02 Website (<https://1point02.jp/op/index.aspx>)
- And, of course, Keith & Sam for building and maintaining the HMB engine. Which should go without saying!
- Some card conventions:
 - RP/SP should be TERSE when starting games, no matter their stamina rating on the card
 - SP/RP should have neutral stamina when relieving, even with a TERSE rating on the card
 - Top 20 PA and IP players are included for each team. This DOES include players that played for other teams during the year. So, you'll see a different Sho Nakata (for example) card for the Giants and the Fighters. Feel free to use one or both as kindling as you see fit.
 - Experience is based on NPB seasons only, with 1 exception – this was technically only Masahiro Tanaka's 8th season in NPB but was awarded ICON on his card.
 - Players are only given a secondary card position if they played half (or more) of the games as the primary position.
- Notes about the season rules:
 - You'll notice a lot of ties on the team card records. This was because games were only max 9 innings for this season.
 - There was a rather long break for the Olympics in the middle of the season. This would be apparent if you have a copy of the NPB schedule that you want to follow.
 - Each team played 25 games against the teams in their league, and interleague play resumed this year, with teams playing a single 3-game series against every team in the other league. This led to a total of 143 games for each team.
 - As is traditional, the CL played with no DH, the PL played with a DH, and in interleague games (and the Nippon Series) the DH was in-force when the PL team was at home.
 - The Climax Series went back to their normal format in both leagues this year.
 - In each league the 3rd place team played the 2nd place team in a 3-game series, with the 2nd place team given both home field and an effective .5 game advantage. Games were also 9 innings max and the .5 game advantage meant that if the 2nd place team had a win and a tie they would advance without the need for Game 3 (this actually happened in the PL).

- The winners of the above series played the Pennant Winner in a 6 game series all played at the home stadium of the Pennant Winner. The Pennant Winner was given a 1 game (really 1.5 game) advantage, which meant that if the home team won 2 games and had a tie they advanced (this is what actually happened in both series).
- The Nippon Series was best-of-7 with the PL Climax Series winner having home field in games 1, 2, 6 & 7 and the CL Climax Series winner having home field in games 3, 4 & 5. The Nippon Series games were max 12 innings, rather than the 9 innings from the regular season and the Climax Series.

(Note: due to conflicts with the annual Meiji Jingu High School & University tournaments, Yakult played their “home games” at Tokyo Dome.
