

History Maker Baseball 1958 Nippon Professional Baseball Season

Welcome to my interpretation of the 1958 NPB Season for History Maker Baseball. In this file, you should find all 6 Central League and all 6 Pacific League teams that made up the 1958 Season, with lineup cards and stadium/logo cards for each team.

The 1958 season appears to be the start of a new era for Japanese baseball. With the merger of Pacific League teams the Daiei Unions and the Mainichi Orions (to create the Mainichi Daiei Orions, abbreviated to "Daimai"), this was the very first season that had exactly 6 teams in each league, as there has been in every season since.

This was also the very first season of the man who would become the face of Baseball in Japan, Shigeo Nagashima. A heralded rookie from Rikkyo University (a Tokyo University part of the famous "Big Six League" of Tokyo-based Universities), the Yomiuri Giants signed him to much fanfare. He would go on to win the Rookie of the Year and Best 9 honors as the Giants won the Central League, leading the league all the way from Early June to the end. Also on this Giants team, but on the other end of their playing career, was "The God of Batting" Tetsuji Kawakami who in his very last year of his career at age 38.

In the Pacific League, the Nankai Hawks led the pennant race for much of the season, but an August swoon brought both the Hankyu Braves and Nishitetsu Lions into the race. The Lions, led by ace pitcher Kazuhisa Inao (who would go 33-10 with a 1.42 ERA), ended up winning the league by a single game over Nankai, and 4.5 games over Hankyu. Oh, and for those of you who enjoy teams on the other end of the victory spectrum: The Kintetsu Pearls infamously lost 97 games in a 130 game season, finishing 29-97-4!

The Nippon Series, matching up Yomiuri and Nishitetsu, also was historic as for the first time in the (at the time brief) history of the Series a team came back from 3-0 behind to win it! Yomiuri won the first 3 games, before the Lions came back to win 4 straight, including a dramatic 10 inning Game 5, to win for the 3rd straight season.

About the data used for the cards: most of the player data comes from the 2689web.com site, an (unofficial) overall site for Japanese Professional Baseball statistics, box scores and other information. Advanced statistics for fielding and lineups come from the RCAA blog at <https://ranzankeikoku.blog.fc2.com/>. The logos were taken from the Nippon Professional Baseball Uniform Chronical, a set of 3 books that (as the name would imply) go through the history of uniform designs for Japanese professional teams, but also has a section on historical logos.

A note about ties: one thing very different about Japanese baseball from MLB is that ties can happen. The rules in 1958 stated that a tie happens when the score is tied:

- a) In a day game, at sunset
- b) In a night game, if a new extra inning is starting after 10:15 PM
- c) In the first game of a double header after 12 innings.

If you want to simulate this, my suggestion would be to cut off games after 15 innings (possibly 14 or 13 if it is a high scoring game – use your imagination to determine!), except for the first game of double headers where you would follow the 12 inning rule.
